THE HONGKONG TELEGRAPH, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1895.

is a battleship of a formidable type. In the general arrangement of her guns and armour she somewhat resembles the Magnificent class. She has a displacement of 12,350 tons, and is steel built and iron copper sheathed, so as to be available for distant duties, like the Centurion and Borlens. In length she is 380', with a beam of 50', and is to have a speed of eighteen knots. She has a belt of 18in. plates, and above this her sides are protected to a considerable height above the waterline by 4in. steel, while her flotation is further secured by a 3in. deck. Her two barbettes, in which are placed her four 10-in. 30-ton guns forming her primary armament, are of 12in. composite armour, and covered in by thick boards or shields, while the ten 6in. quick-firing guns forming her secondary battery are placed in armoured casements, three on either side of the main deck, and the remainder at four corners of the central superstructure. Besides these heavy weapons, the Ramore mounts eight of the new 10-in. rapid-fire guns, and a score of lighter machine and rapid-fire guns, while her torpedo equipment comprises seven impulse tubes. Her cost is estimated at £67,000.

OBITUARY.

The death of the Earl of Pembroke took place at Frankfort on the 1st May. The family honours devolve upon his brother, the Hon. Sidney Herbert, M.P., for Croydon, who was born in 1853, and married in 1877, Lady Beatrice, daughter of the second Earl of Duthie. The Herbert family is one of great antiquity, the late peer being descended from Herbert Fitzherbert, Chamberlain to Henry I, and the first Earl of the present line was William Herbert, who married the sister of Catherine Parr, King Henry VIII's last wife.

The death of the Dowager Duchess of Roxburghe, which occurred on 7th inst., has to be announced. The late Duchess was a Lady of the Bedchamber to Her Majesty, and a Lady of the Order of Victoria and Albert. She acted as Mistress of the Robes in 1892.

Lady Kimberley, the wife of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, died on 4th inst., after some weeks' illness. Lady Kimberley, who was the eldest daughter and co-heiress of the third and last Earl of Clare, was married to the Earl of Kimberley on August 16th, 1847.

A Reuter's telegram from Geneva states that M. Karl Vogt, the celebrated German biologist, died there on the 6th May, at the age of seventy-eight.

Sir George Buchanan, long the chief medical officer to the Local Government Board, London, is dead.

GENERAL FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

GERMANY.—During the past week the disappointment of Germany to the participation of the German Government in a demonstration against Japan, in conjunction with Russia and France, has been on the increase; but quite unexpectedly a telegram yesterday brought the news that Japan would give in to the protest of the European Powers. Although this news has removed a little of the discontent of German mercantile men, in so far as a war will be avoided, still every one experienced with the habits in the Far East feels-persuaded that the action of the three Powers will not be forgotten.

At Hamburg the building of the new City Hall is being proceeded with day and night to get it ready for the reception of the Emperor and suite in June. On the Alster Lake also work is carried on with the utmost despatch to build an artificial island, and on it a castle able to hold a thousand people. Money at present is no object in Germany.

Major von Wissmann, the well-known African traveller, who had been out there for a number of years, but had to return on account of his shaken health, has quite recovered, and has already returned to East Africa, but this time as Governor and Commander-in-Chief. A new steamship, built on account of the Norddeutche Lloyd, at Stettin, and named the Cresfeld, has made her trial trip, attaining 17 knots; she is a large vessel, and will be employed in the Bremer-Brazilian trade.

One of the most celebrated German poets, Gustav Freytag, died last week at Wiesbaden.

On May 1st the leaders of German Socialism had again striven to secure a general holiday, but in all parts of the Empire the lower classes almost entirely neglected this Socialist order.

At Hamburg three great meetings had been prepared, but none of them were well attended, although several thousands had been expected.

Place von Radolin has been named German Ambassador at St. Petersburg.

The German General Kaiser was despatched to Japan yesterday, fully manned and war-like outfit. This vessel is one of the older vessels of the German navy, but she has been kept in good order and is still a formidable vessel.

The Warren Commissions Bank in Hamburg, which has been created to foster the account business in cotton and sugar, and which has hitherto worked with a capital of m. 2,000,000, has resolved to reduce its paid-up capital to m. 1,000,000, for 1904. The business of the Bank has shown a small development, and after payment of all expenses a net profit remains of m. 63,129 (m. 45,000 in 1893); so that a dividend of six per cent. is paid for 1894.

NEWS BY THE AUSTRALIAN MAIL.

LONDON, May 14th. The International Commission enquiring into the Armenian atrocities has had some shocking experiences lately. The commissioners on leaving Moscow passed the charred ruins of two villages which had been devastated by the Turkish soldiery. When Ghelli and Eroosan were reached it was found that 120 houses had been burned down and that the entire people were starving in the ruins. On search being made two human skulls were found where human remains and fragments of clothing were scattered. The frightful smell almost suffocated the diggers. The Commission had the greatest difficulty in compelling the diggers to continue their work.

May 15th.

Mr. William O'Brien, M.P., is about to resign his seat owing to financial difficulties. He is being forced into the bankruptcy court owing to his failure to pay the costs incurred in an action at law brought by him some time ago against the Marquis of Salisbury for slander.

Serious labor disturbances have occurred in Arizona, where conflicts have taken place between the Indians and the miners. The Indians made an attack upon the men working at the mines, and the feeling has become so intense that an insurrection is feared.

Latest news from Chital states that Lieutenant Fowler and Edwards have been acquitted of all blame, in connection with the recent outburst.

From India news has been received of the death of Lieutenant Limond, of the Punjab Light Infantry. The officer was fatally stabbed by a fanatic.

The natives in Chital continue to cause the British forces under General Sir R. C. Low a great deal of trouble. The outposts have been attacked by tribesmen, and telegraph lines have been cut.

Particulars of the attacks have been received through private sources, and were conveyed to the nearest telegraph station by a body of coolies.

May 16th.

Jacob Spencer Balfour, charged with fraud in connection with the suspension of the Liberator Building Society and several kindred institutions, appeared at the Birkenhead Yacht Court to-day. Amongst the witnesses was the Earl of Kimberley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who appeared in response to a sub-jury, and produced the original warrant for Balfour's extradition from the Argentine Republic.

Evidence concerning Balfour's connection with the Liberator Building Society implicates him in the frauds, was given, and the accused was committed to stand his trial.

Arthur Orton, the Tichborne claimant, who was sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment in 1874 on a charge in connection with the case, has confessed that he is really Arthur Orton, the son of George Orton. He intends to publish his biography, giving the whole facts of his career as the claimant.

A serious quarrel between a musician and a doctor, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, has resulted fatally. The musician, meeting the doctor in the street, shot him dead, and then committed suicide.

A disastrous fire occurred to-day in Bermondsey. The fire spread over an acre and a half, and the damage is estimated at £150,000.

Dr. W. G. Grace, the cricketer, is at present in good form with the bat. In a match against Bristol he to-day scored 288.

A mysterious explosion has taken place in a railway carriage in the city. A gentleman was the only occupant of the carriage at the time, but he fortunately escaped serious injury, although he was stunned. A brass cylinder, which had evidently contained the explosive, was found in the carriage. The affair is a mystery.

ADELAIDE, May 17th.

George Giffen says his article on the tour of Stoddart's eleven in Australia, which was published in the London Pall Mall Gazette, was written at the request of a representative of that paper. Giffen mentioned the cricketing and social success of the Englishmen, and also the financial success of the tour. It pronounced undeniably that the team was the most popular one that had visited the colonies. A large measure of the popularity and success of the team was due to the courtesy and geniality of Stoddart, whose sagacity as a captain was beyond praise. Giffen considers that the best Australian eleven was stronger than the English team, the batting and fielding of the Australians being better than the British, but the latter had a great variety of first-class bowlers. Richardson was regarded as being a most effective member of the eleven, and lavish praise is given to the Englishmen for their victory in the final test match.

LONDON, May 20th.

Particulars of a mysterious occurrence at sea just been received from Lowestoft. The details of the tragedy are of a most ghastly description. The master of a fishing smack noticed a foreign barge off the coast evidently in distress early yesterday morning, and sent two men in a boat to render assistance to the vessel. The men did not return, and a second party was sent out to the strange barge. They, however, failed to discover any traces of the first boat which had been despatched from the shore. There appeared to be no person on the strange barge, and the men borded her. There they were surprised to find all the boats belonging to the ship in their proper places, and for a time there appeared no explanation for the detention of the ship.

A search, however, revealed a tragedy of a terrible character had been enacted on the vessel. The bodies of four men were found in different parts of the ship, two of the bodies being those of the men who had first been sent to render assistance to those on the barge. The mate of the ship was amongst the murdered men, and his death was evidently caused by a cut which appeared on his forehead.

The two foreigners, members of the crew of the barge, who were found dead were each armed with knuckle-dusters. It was evident there had been a mutiny on board, and that the mutineers, after killing the men sent to assist and scuttling the ship, made their escape in the boat which put out from Lowestoft. The barge sank shortly afterwards.

MELBOURNE, May 21st.

Mr. Michael Davitt, the Irish patriot, lectured to a large audience at the Hibernian Hall last night, taking as his subject "Parliamentary Photography." The lecturer discussed the numerous notabilities of the Commons in an interesting and at times powerful manner, drawing the sympathy of his audience with a magnetic eloquence which left imagination to fill the gap which the reality of fact would barely grasp. Since the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, said Mr. Davitt, "Mr. Morley has been the most popular man in the House. His utterance can accept with equanimity, and the question more immediately before him is, how in the face of the present and coming competition of Japan and China, he can most profitably dispose of his produce. There is no doubt that in the matter of manufacture of the coarser cloths the primitive processes of the up-country native must gradually disappear—the warping by a woman handling a bamboo resembling a fishing rod, forked at the end to carry the yarn, and working in a circle equal in circumference to the length of the piece, the yarn afterwards being sized in a kind of rope-walk by means of a white-wash brush. All this must eventually give place to the power-looms with its highly perfected preparatory machinery. In view of this change, extensions of machinery in Bombay are, according to the Straits Times, chiefly confined to putting down looms as a complement to spinning machinery or adding to the number of existing looms. This is doubtless in the right direction, but in the probability of increasing competition in the Far East it is necessary for the Bombay spinners to consider seriously the future of their important industry. They have now confessedly replaced Lancashire yarns into the coarser counts by similar yarns produced here at a less cost, chiefly owing to geographical position. In the face of growing competition it remains to be seen how far they can, with profit, extend their operations.

THE BOMBAY COTTON INDUSTRY.

In the treaty of peace just concluded between China and Japan, the most important item for the Indian cotton spinner is certainly that in which the Japanese stipulate for the right to open cotton factories in their newly acquired territories. The mere fact that prominence is given to this matter by making it one of the six clauses in the Japanese ultimatum, shows the value that nation attaches to it. One would naturally suppose that the possession of territory would carry with it the right to erect anything upon it from a lighthouse to a battery—the one for the protection of life, the other for its destruction.

It is most significant that this provision for the erection of cotton factories should be considered worthy of a place in a treaty of peace between such powers as China and Japan alongside of an indemnity of 200,000,000 yen. Japan evidently foresees a mine of wealth in cotton spinning, more than in anything else that presents itself for the moment.

The Bombay mills have, as is well known, been principally dependent on China and Japan for their export trade. India, beginning in 1854, has taken forty years to attain to its present total of some three and a half millions of spindles of which probably two-thirds have been working for the China and Japan markets.

Japan, a few years ago, put up by way of experiment, some twenty mills of from 1,000 to 2,000 spindles each. These were started in different provinces, simply, as it were, to "feel the pulse" of the country in this new industry, and although manifestly too small to show a great financial success, the results were sufficiently encouraging to justify their extension in some cases. In this way one mill at Osaka, originally of 4,000 spindles, has extended to 5,000 spindles, and 120 looms. Another at Tokio, started with 1,000 spindles, has now 8000. Besides these extensions many new mills have been started in Japan, until in a comparatively short space of time Japan has about 70,000 spindles, comprising chiefly with Bombay mills and, at the same time China is extending, although more slowly, her cotton spinning capacities. Unless new markets are found for the produce of Bombay mills it would seem as if (as expressed by a leading member of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce) India's business, as naturally follows, will be ruined.

THE LABUAN CLUB CASE.

To the Editor of the "Hongkong Telegraph."

DEAR SIR.—I send you "North Borneo Notes" which mention is made of "The Labuan Club Case." There were two cases. In one, the plaintiff sued for declaration that the proceedings of the defendants (who were members of the Committee of the Labuan Club) were illegal; in the other, he sued for damages for alleged libel contained in certain letters published by the defendants. The Sessions Judge gave judgment for the plaintiff in both cases, and in the latter awarded $1,000 damages. The defendants appealed. It may interest some of your readers to know that news just to hand is that the judgments have both been "set aside" with costs.

Yours faithfully,

ED. ROBINSON.

Hongkong, 1st June 1895.

[So far as we understand the facts of the cases we never anticipated any other result than the certain reversal of both of these very extraordinary judgments.—ED. H.K.T.]

TIENTSIN NOTES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

TIENTSIN, May 20th.

The pioneers of Japanese progress have already made their appearance amongst us. Japanese merchants and Japanese officials will no doubt soon follow, if all goes well with the pioneers. By the way, steamers lately arrived report passing twelve Japanese transports loaded with troops, bound south from Liuchung, possibly from Nanchang, for Formosa to form a little escort for the newly appointed Japanese Governor of that island. The Chinese officials, however, assert that the Russians and Americans are to do the same, and, as far as possible, to meet the Japanese. The Japanese are to be the first to reach Formosa.

The pearl necklace is said to be almost unique. It is composed of seven rows, containing 362 finely graduated pearls, with a diamond tablet snap. It is understood that the pearl had been collected with the utmost care, so that the like of such a necklace, for size, colour and faultless matching, can hardly be found. Experts in the jewelry business have declared that only three necklaces exist which can be compared, for splendour or symmetry and dimensions, with these seven rows. It was knocked down at auction amid an excited crowd of would-be buyers. Two of those three necklaces are said to be rivals in value.

Mrs. Conklin's demonstrations are avowed by her to be to educate and prepare women not only to preside over and conduct public meetings, but also for that future sphere in representation, in which it may please public opinion to call them.

Mrs. Conklin devoted to-day to explaining, by practical methods, the meaning of "male questions," and then initiated the class into the use of subsidiary motions, by which the male question or subject before the house might be amended or blocked.

The Gobenburg "big four"—Griffith Walbaum, Dennis McLaughlin, Jacob Cushing and John H. Carr—will have to undergo their sentence of one year's imprisonment and $1,000 fine each for running their race track in defiance of law.

The Court of Errors and Appeals to-day unanimously affirmed sentences imposed by Supreme Court Justices Dixon, Magic and Lippincott. An appeal was taken on a stay, which will run out on May 18th. The Supreme Court will meet on that day, probably in Jersey City.

The confirming of this opinion of the Supreme Court means that the "big four" will have to go to prison and serve their sentences unless the Court of Pardons interferes. As the latter court does not meet until July, it looks as if the sentence would have to be carried out.
